Citi Named Best Cash Management Provider in Russia and Kazakhstan by Euromoney

Citi in Russia and Kazakhstan has been voted lead domestic cash management bank in the Euromoney's annual 2011 cash management poll.

Citi in Russia and Kazakhstan has been voted Lead Domestic Cash Management Bank in the Euromoney Annual 2011 Cash Management Poll. In total, Citi received 13 country awards worldwide making it Cash Management Bank #1 globally for the fifth consecutive year.

The poll was held among cash managers, treasurers and financial officers worldwide telling about the standard of international cash management services they receive from their banks. Survey respondents indicated which banks currently provide most of their cash management services globally, regionally, and domestically and also rated services provided by their cash managers on a sliding scale.

Zdenek Turek, Citi Country Officer, Russia, Citi Division Head Russia, Eastern and Central Europe (RECE), noted: "We are excited about the industry's recognition of Citi leadership in Russia, Kazakhstan and the entire CEE region for our cash management solutions businesses. Winning this prestigious domestic and regional award is an important endorsement and a great vote of confidence in the value we bring to our clients. Moreover, it is a testament to our employees, who remain committed to providing the best business solutions and top-level service to meet clients' diverse and growing needs."

Citi is committed to providing clients with the most innovative tools and solutions, robust technology, and access to its unparalleled global network. As evidence of this, Citi is very proud of its high rankings in this year's Service Satisfaction Rankings within Euromoney's Annual 2011 Cash Management Poll.
